ALL WANT THE RIBBONS

CHINESE CALLING AT THE SECRETARY'S OFFICE FOR BIRTH CERTIFICATES—WANT DECORATED ONES.

That there is no way of fathoming the workings of the Oriental mind has been strongly borne upon Jim Lloyd, assistant clerk to the Secretary of the Territory, during the past few days. A duty that keeps him well occupied in itself is the preparation of certificates of birth for Chinese who have been here all their lives and who wish to make sure of their privileges as American citizens. These certificates are issued after proofs have been produced, the Secretary signing them and the seal of the Territory being placed on them. Ordinarily the seal is impressed over a plain red water but a little while ago a Chinaman whom Lloyd has known well for a long time came up for papers. With a view to making his old acquaintance feel good Lloyd fixed up a most elaborate certificate. He put a green silk ribbon through them leading the ribbon under the seal which, instead of being plain red, was of gilt. Altogether the document was most imposing even though it is of no more service than any of the plain ones.

But Lloyd had not reckoned with what was coming. His Chinese friend proudly paraded his well certificate before the jealous eyes of acquaintances in Chinatown and the trouble began. It was plain to them that they had been humiliated somehow because their certificates had no green ribbons or gold seals. These things mean something in Chinese eyes, and the Secretary's office has been besieged for the last few days by Hawaiian born Chinese who want to trade off their red sealed papers for new ones fixed up by Lloyd's neat methods. The Chinaman have to make the explanation that is made but to say that they are satisfied would be going wide of the mark.

LAUKEA WOULD BE CHAIRMAN

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR DELEGATE TO CONGRESS ALSO PROPOSES TO RUN CAMPAIGN.

C. P. Louken, who is almost sure to be the Democratic nominee for Delegate to Congress, is said to also want to be the chairman of the central committee and run the campaign, but there is some objection to his program in among the local members of the party. It is regarded as certain that Laukea will lead the nomination for delegate, but there is considerable doubt as to his chances to be the party manager.

Many of the Democrats think that Laukea is getting enough if he is made the candidate for Congress, and that he should not ask for the other party honor. A question is also raised as to the propriety of the man who is heading the ticket taking up the work of campaign management.

MUST HAVE A HEARING

A PARKER CASE DECISION HAND ED DOWN BY JUDGE GEAR—HE REFUSES TO DISMISS THE PETITION FOR THE REMOVAL OF GUARDIAN CARTER UNTIL THERE HAS BEEN A DETERMINATION OF THE CHARGES.

The Parker case had another short running in Judge Gear's court this morning when the judge handed down his decision on the motion made in behalf of A. W. Carter, guardian of Anna Thelma K. Parker, to rescind the authority of J. S. Low as guardian "ad litem" and "next friend" of the girl over whose estate the more or less merry legal war is raging. A similar petition had been filed on behalf of Mrs. Knight, mother of the minor, and both were decided on the same argument.

The decision of the judge, which is a lengthy one, does not grant the petition to rescind Low's authority nor does it dismiss it, but it continues it until an answer is filed and the whole matter is disposed of, at the same time saying in very certain terms that the matter to be solved is the fitness of Carter as guardian, and that if allegations made by Low are correct, it is not an answer to them to say that he has no right to interfere as he is not really the next friend of the minor.

The conclusion reached by the judge runs thus: "As it is not incumbent upon the court to refer this matter for inquiry, and as the court is convinced that justice will be better subserved by continuing this motion until after an answer, if any, is filed by the guardian and until a hearing can be had which will be full and complete and in which the whole matter will be disposed of, the court will continue the matter until such time as the motion to remove the guardian is set for hearing on its merits, and it is so ordered."

The document handed down by Judge Gear is from a legal standpoint most interesting.

"The averments in support of the motion are set out at length in the motion itself, the entire paper forming what counsel state to be a 'verified motion' runs the decision. 'A pleading, by ever, with which the court has been heretofore unfamiliar, and which research has failed to provide a precedent so far as the court is aware.' Continuing the decision runs over the ground of the affidavits of Mrs. Knight and others regarding the relations with Low and of those of Low respecting Carter, all of which have been published. "It is undeniable and it was admitted by counsel for the movants that if an inquiry be had as to whether the proceedings should continue or whether it would be for the interest of the ward that the suit to remove Carter be prosecuted that a hearing must of necessity embrace some, if not most, of the charges made by the next friend against the guardian. It certainly cannot be determined whether or not it is for the best interest of the ward to sell her property unless a hearing be had thereon, if a ward's property could be sold for a sum of money greatly in excess of its value and the guardian, as alleged in the case at bar, refuses to sell unless another party will sell out to him or grant him large concessions, it certainly would be a matter calling for explanation by the guardian, and he should not be absolved from answering such an allegation by merely claiming that the next friend of the minor should not have commenced proceedings. In this case I do not clearly see how it can be very well claimed that the next friend should be removed either because of interest or because he is not looking out for the ward's interest, for all that is sought is the removal of the guardian on the ground that he is unsuitable. The next friend does not ask that he be appointed guardian or that the court order a right of way over the Paahau lands or other those lands sold. In this proceeding he asks simply that the guardian be removed and he alleges facts showing a ground therefor."
